INSIST UPON A HEINTZMAN CO PIANO

WHEN you are ready to purchase a Piano for a lifetime, not the makeshift instruments for a few years' use, but the Piano whose sterling qualities will leave absolutely nothing to be desired, then insist upon having a Heintzman & Co. Piano.

Its pure singing tone is not an artificial quality soon to wear away, leaving harshness in place of brilliancy, dullness in place of sweetness, but an inherent right of the Heintzman. Forty-five years of patient endeavor upon this point, non-deterioration with age, has made the Heintzman what it is—the acknowledged standard of durability.

CONWAY.

Well, Mr. Editor, although news is scarce I do not think we would be doing justice to our quiet little hamlet if we did not let the surrounding neighborhood know the present state of affairs.

Farmers are busy cutting hay. It exceeds their expectation.

We had a big wind storm on the 2nd which raged furiously on the bay. The Str. Reindeer had a rough time of it, and had it not been that she had on some heavy freight belonging to this port she would surely have gone over, as it was she was unable to call here and the freight remained on over night.

Thos. McLaugherty is renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity.

Mr. W. Wright spent Sunday in Cressy.

There was quite an amusing incident happened at the store on Saturday night. A number had collected there and when they pulled out their watches and compared the time not two was alike, and worse still not one had the correct time. They intend trading them off for cats.

SUMMER EMERGENCIES.

JUST WHAT TO DO IN CASES OF SUNSTROKE AND DROWNING.

How to Save the Spark of Life—A Set of Instructions Compiled and Issued by the New York Board of Health—Applicable and Useful Everywhere.

The following instructions for restoring persons overcome by heat and reviving those rescued from water have just been reissued by the New York Board of Health:

Sunstroke.

Anyone overcome by the heat should be immediately removed to the nearest shade, and the collar or shirt or dress should be loosened. Send immediately for the nearest physician, and give the person cool drinks of water, black tea or coffee, if able to swallow.

If the skin is hot and dry, place the person in a sitting position against a tree, wall, or anything that will be a support to the back; sponge with or pour some cold water over the body and limbs, and apply to the head pounded ice wrapped in a towel or other cloth. If there is no ice at hand, keep a cold cloth on the head, and pour cold water on it as well as on the body.

If the person is pale, very faint and pulse-feeble, lay him down on the back, let him inhale ammonia for a few seconds, or give him a teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia or tincture of ginger in two tablespoonfuls of water. Use no cold water upon the head or body, but rub the hands and feet and apply warm applications to the same until the circulation is restored.

Drowning.

1.—Loosen the clothing; place the face downward, with the forehead resting on one of the wrists, and the face turned to one side. Open the mouth; seize the tongue between the fingers, covered with a handkerchief or piece of cloth, and draw it forward between the teeth; clear the mouth and throat from mucus by passing the forefinger, covered with a handkerchief or piece of cloth, far back into the mouth, thus opening a free passage to the windpipe.

2.—Turn the body face upward, shoulders resting on a folded coat or pillow; keep the tongue drawn forward; raise the arms backward and upward to the sides of the head (this expands the chest and allows the air to enter the lungs); then slowly move them downward, bending them so that the elbows will come to the sides and the hands cross the pit of the stomach, and press them gently but strongly against the sides and chest (this forces the air out of the lungs). Continue these two movements (which produce artificial breathing) very deliberately about ten or twelve times in a minute and without ceasing, until the patient breathes naturally, or until satisfied that life is extinct.

3.—While this is being done a little friction on the chest may be produced by rubbing gently with warm flannel, and the body may be stripped and wrapped in dry blankets.

After natural breathing begins continue very gently for a few minutes the two movements which produced artificial breathing.

After natural breathing is fully restored give the patient a teaspoonful of brandy, hot sling or tea, two or three times a minute, until the beating of the pulse can be felt at the wrist.

Rub the arms and legs upward, and the feet and hands with warm or dry flannel.

Apply hot cloths to the body, legs and arms, and bottles of hot water to the feet.

1.—Do not be discouraged if animation does not return in a few minutes. The

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and assimilation, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Mr. John and Mrs. J. S. Doyle, are both better. The former has returned from Deseronto.

The difference betwixt a GROAN and a LAUGH demonstrated! A wretched sufferer moaning with the pain of a bad case of piles, suddenly bursts out into a hearty laugh, after being relieved of his distress by use of Magic Pile Lotion.

The Sunday School Picnic to Stella was a grand success. The numerous prizes competed for showed a great amount of athletic skill and ability. All were delighted with the day's enjoyment (with a slight exception) that of having to take the Armenia in the place of the steamer Hero as was expected.

Mr. D. W. Ball, (who was reported as being out of the coal trade) much to the delight of the consumers has received two cargoes of the dusty diamonds this week and more to follow, consequently monopoly has given place to a living profit.

We regret to learn that Mr. Alex. Armstrong is still confined to his room with little prospects of getting around very soon.

The numerous summer resorters at the Bay View express themselves as being delighted with their reception and surroundings.

Patrons of Industry must be attending to their harvest as very few are seen in our village for the past few days.

A grand excursion to Welles Isle is under contemplation by the members of the Methodist church in the near future. Due notice will be given.

Business is quite brisk this week.

The Rathbun Co. have completed the bricking of the Hope Hotel.

The reception for Rev. Mr. McCulloch was well attended on July 4th in parsonage lawn. The programme by foreign and local talent was well rendered.

The English Church Sunday School excursion to Napanee on Tuesday last was well attended by our school.

On Wednesday last Mrs. Gordanier, with about fifty others of our village friends, loaded their baskets with the good things such as is required to sustain the inner man, and wended their way to the picnic ground's on Mr. Nugent's farm and spent a very enjoyable day's outing.

Mr. Richard Madden fell from the upper part of his new house to the ground floor breaking one of his ribs. Pleased to say Mr. Madden is improving nicely.

Our village has lost one of its best citizens in the person of Mr. A. M. Robertson. For two years he has been one of the assistant teachers in our High School and has discharged his duties there to the satisfaction of all. The pupils showed their regard for him by presenting him with an address and one of the best teachers bibles. He has been president of the Epworth League since September last and at his last meeting many kind words were spoken, showing the estimation in which he was held by the members. He has been a successful Sabbath School teacher during his stay with us and in fact in both public and private life he has shown himself a man in every respect, minding his own business and doing it well. We wish him every success in his college career and a long life.

DINNER THAT COST $700 A PLATE.

Eaten in a Gambling House and Followed by a Turn at Faro.

"History of the cuisine fairly teems with descriptions of costly meals," remarked Louis Davies, of Brooklyn. "We read how that profligate, Heliogabalus, the Roman emperor, had a single dish on his table once that cost $200,000, and how another Roman, Aelius Verus, gave a supper to a dozen cronies that cost a quarter of a million dollars. Then Vitellius, still another Roman, and an emperor, likewise, entertained his brother at a little snack that used up a couple of hundred thousand, but these were ancient fellows, who had nightingales' tongues and humming-birds' brains and similar marvelous dainties. Coming down to modern days and plain, ordinary, everyday ham and eggs, I ate a supper once in this very town that cost a friend of mine $1,400. A gentleman named Parker kept an establishment devoted to entertaining gentlemen at sundry games of chance. One night the friend I speak of and myself were killing an evening here together, when we conceived the brilliant idea that a visit to Parker's would be just the thing. We put it into execution at once. I have never grumbled in my life, and my friend has not done it since. We went upstairs and entered the room just as supper was announced. My friend did not want to eat anything, but I was hungry and when some plausible rascal of a dealer told me that there was broiled Smithfield ham, flanked with pullets' eggs as a sort of side issue to the otherwise gorgeous feast, I broke for the supper room, despite my companion's pleadings. Of course he followed me when he found his protestations were useless, and we enjoyed the feed most immensely. When we came out my friend pulled out a $25 bill and said he would play a turn or two to pay for our supper. I begged him in turn not to do it, but he was as obdurate as I had been. But why linger on the misery? He lost his $20 bill and tried to get it back. In two hours $1,400 were gone glimmering. I have never felt so downright hungry since that a slight request from a more acquiescent man could keep me away from the table."—Washington Star.

A BEAUTIFUL HORSE THIEF.

She is May Colvin, an Ozark Girl of 18, and as Pretty as a Picture.

The female department of the penitentiary undoubtedly furnishes the most depraved types of humanity. Primarily, the partiality of courts and juries for women characterizes every judicial system of civilization; and so it must be a depraved and dangerous woman, indeed whom a jury of Americans will sentence to penal servitude.

Decidedly the most unique personality of the female population of the prison is May Colvin. May is only 18 years old, and is a rustic beauty. Dress her in the gorgeous paraphernalia of Lillian Russell, and she would be a more brilliant beauty than that stage celebrity. She has great blue eyes and a mass of tow-sheled blond hair of Titian tint. Her form is luscious—well rounded and plump—and her cheeks are as red with the vigorous life of the Ozarks, whence she came. Her mouth is one that an impressionable artist would go wild over, with its cherry-red lips of sensuous curves, the whole forming the most perfect Cupid's bow. And withal May is a horse thief, and doesn't deny it. Certainly the confinement in the penitentiary has brought out her native beauty, that must have been blurred or obscured by her exposure to all sorts of rough weather while fleeing over the plains and mountains of the Southwest from the officers, or else no jury could have ever been induced to give her a term in prison, especially for so common and plebeian an offence as stealing horses.

But May is not only a horse thief, but a jail breaker as well by her own confession. Her feat in breaking from the jail at Girard, Kan., where she was confined about two years ago for horse stealing, her escape to Jasper county, Mo., and her subsequent capture there and prosecution on an old charge will be recalled by the readers of newspapers.

"Well, I have no hard-luck story to tell," was the way May greeted The Republic representative. "They made no mistake in my case. Nearly everybody else in here is innocent, according to their own statement, but I'm not. I'm here for stealing horses."

"When I heard you were here and wanted to see me, I thought you were an officer from Girard, Kan., and wanted to take me back there for breaking out of jail. I'm glad you are not, but I guess they'll come for me as soon as my term is out here, which will be in about fourteen months, if I behave myself. I've been a pretty good girl since I've been here. The reason for it, I guess, is that I haven't had a chance to be bad. However, I've managed to break the rules as to be put in the dark room two or three times. But I'm going to behave myself from now on, so I can get the benefit of the three-fourths rule."

"I don't know why I've turned out so bad unless it is that it was just born in me. My mother is a good woman, only 35 years old now, a member of the Methodist Church, and has been married three times. She raised me right, and my father, who is a dentist, was always kind and indulgent to me. I went to the public schools in Webb City until I was sixteen, and then the devilment began to crop out in me. I don't know why, either."

"Nobody ever taught me any wrong. I'm not like other women, either, in blaming my downfall on any man. Nobody Blackbirded me. But I guess Charley Crech, my sweetheart, who is over on the other side of the wall for petty larceny, could tell you, if he would, that I was the cause of his going wrong. We'll get out of this place about the same time, and if the officers from Kansas don't grab me as soon as I get out of the gate I guess I'll join him."—St. Louis Republic.

When the Sun is Hottest.

The fact has long been recognized that the sun is a variable star. Of course its variations are slight, else they would have a disastrous effect upon the earth. The regularity with which sun spots gradually increase and then decrease in number and size is, however, a sufficient indication that, as viewed from a great distance in space, and with sufficient delicate means of observation, the sun would run through a cycle of variations in brightness once in every eleven years. It might well be supposed that if such changes take place they would be more easily perceived from the earth than from a greater distance. As a matter of fact, however, there are practical difficulties which render it almost impossible to get an accurate measure of the variation from year to year in the amount of the sun's radiation that falls upon the earth. It has even been undecided whether the sun is hotter or colder when it is most spotted. Some observations have indicated that the sun is hotter when the disturbances that create sun-spots are most active, while other observations have, at the same time, tended to show that less heat is then received on the face of the earth than is received when there are practically no sun-spots. Recently, however, M. Savelle has reported to the Academy of Sciences in Paris the result of experiments and calculations made by him since 1890, which strongly go to show that not only is the sun hotter when it is most spotted, but that it is precisely at such times that the surface of the earth feels the greatest intensity of solar radiation. If M. Savelle's conclusion remains unshaken, it will settle a question that has long been more or less of a puzzle, and will aid in the solution of the problem of the sun's influence.

line of steamships, with ample cold storage, bound, in return for a moderate subsidy, to carry freight at a moderate price, for all exporters, whether farmers, cattle buyers, 'cheese boards or private buyers and sellers. A very fast rate of travel, at a large price, is a luxury for which the Dominion should not be taxed.

MANY of the farmers of this province have been somewhat annoyed by the sheduling of Canadian cattle exported to England, and the law makers
"over there" have been blamed for the trouble. According to Mr. Mulock, however, the whole trouble is with the government at Ottawa. A very loose manner of quarantining American cattle passing through Canada, seems to have been the whole cause of the bother. At least that is what Dr.
Wright says, and he was appointed by the Dominion government to look after the regulations and see them enforced.
American cattle, it is said, have been passed through this country without so much as being examined, let alone quarantined, and the fault is placed by Mr. Mulock upon the Government at Ottawa. It is well known that pleu-ropneumonia exists in the States, and the authorities in Britain are aware of the transit of American cattle as described through Canadian territory because Dr. Wright has written to inform them of the facts, in revenge for the Grand Trunk railway having refused to bribe him to conceal the true
state of affairs.

THE Patrons of Industry, now the local elections are over, will be directing their energies to the accomplishment of
of some much needed reforms in the Commons at Ottawa. While the farmers of this country have, perhaps, some little grievances, which require amending in the Local Legislature, their real burdens are put upon them by the legislation enacted at Ottawa. First among their real live grievances is the N. P., and following are such minor matters as the flagrant corruption, and thieving from the public till, which has been proven over and over again to be rampant in the Dominion House.
Already the Patrons have a large number of candidates in the field for Dominion representation, and it is likely more will be nominated. There are constituencies, however, where it would be far better for the order to take up with some candidate whose platform is nearly alike to their own,
instead of running an independent candidate. The patron nominee must perform a low tariff man, and to run a low tariff patron against a low tariff man already in the field, is most assuredly to give the victory to the National Policy representative. Thus, instead of accomplishing any reform,
the Patrons will be actually setting back the day when the tariff shall be revised in the interest of the general public and the farmer. The Red Parlour combination is stronger than most people imagine. For proof of which see the tariff as Mr. Foster proposed it should be when he had lopped off the mouldering branches, and the tariff as it now stands amended at the dictation of the Red Parlour men. It will take all the forces that can be mustered in favor of free trade to conquer the monopolists, so what chance will there be of victory in constituencies where two low tariff men are fighting one N.
P. candidate. That the Patrons will be wise enough to see this difficulty and recognise it in their actions, is what may be expected, and what certainly is necessary if the farmers intend to shake off the shackles which now bind them.

The French Treaty Is Ratified By Parliament.

LAURIER VOTES WITH THE MINISTRY

Three Amendments Voted Down.—Col. O'Brien's Declaring the Treaty Unfair.—Mr. Edgar's For Additions of St. Pierre and Mr. Laurier's For Steamship Communication.

OTTAWA, July 11.—Hon. Mr. Foster on rising to move the second reading of the bill for the ratification of the French treaty was greeted with considerable applause. This is the hon. gentleman's first appearance in the House for over a month, and he still looks somewhat thinner than usual, and has not quite recovered his strength. He said that he did not think the treaty needed much discussion after the very thorough manner it had been dealt with last year. There were, however, two or three points upon which there were some little doubts with reference to the interpretation of the treaty, and some of these doubts have been set at rest. One was with reference to the item of fish preserved in their natural form, "Poisons conserves as nature," and he was not at all clear in his own mind as to the meaning of that. If it meant simply fish in the natural state it would have cut us off the benefit to a very large and important industry in this Dominion, and that question was not definitely settled last year. Further communications have been had, as will appear from the papers brought down, and that matter is now set at rest. This class includes what is called generally "canned fish," which are not preserved by the addition of other substances such as sardines, but preserved salmon and lobsters and all fish canned or preserved in that way can come in under that clause.

There was also a point of doubt with reference to the question of soap, as to what was meant by that, as to whether that would allow all soaps to come into this country or not. Last year he held that it meant simply castile soap, and that is what has been upheld by the French commissioners in communication with Sir Charles Tupper.

These two points having been cleared away we now approach the ratification of the treaty, and he was here to-day to move the second reading of this bill. There have been two or three objections raised outside of this House to the ratification of the treaty. One has been raised by a very large and very important body of people in our country—the prohibitionists. They feared that the treaty, if ratified, might interfere with the passage by Parliament or the Provincial Legislature of prohibitory measures, but he had explained to them that their fears were groundless. The very fact which gives force to this treaty is that, so far as this country is concerned, the majority voice of the people is the very force which must if prohibition is enacted in this country enact that prohibition. When it comes to that point and prohibition is enacted then, as Parliament will control the Government, it will then immediately remove the obstacle in so far as the treaty is an obstacle by giving notice of the renunciation of the treaty. It cannot be said that the time for the renunciation of the treaty would be any impediment to the carrying out of the wishes of the people in that respect, for certainly no prohibitory law could be enacted and put into force through the majority of parliament in less time that the treaty could be renounced in and it would be entirely out of the way so far as any bar was concerned so soon as prohibition became enacted.

With reference to the objection raised by the wine growers, he said that when the ad valorem duty is taken away they will have a very fair protection when the wines which they make here, and taken in connection with the cost of carriage and possibly greater cost of the wines themselves, as they are compared one with the other, they have still left them a very substantial and adequate protection.

As to the point raised by the wine-growers, that manufacturers of foreign wines were favored in the matter of spirits for fortifying their wines, he intimated that the Government might make some concessions to the wine-growers in that direction. In conclusion he referred to the great responsibility which would rest on Parliament if the treaty was rejected, and urged its ratification.

before negotiating treaties the Government should take steps to find out the wishes of the people. He thought the tax on wines entering Canada should be increased and favored giving Canadian wine producers free alcohol with which to fortify their native wines. What was wrong with Canada was the tea-drinking curse. [Loud laughter.] The liquor habit was not to be feared in Canada if Canadians would drink their own pure wines and refuse to admit into the country the adulterated wines and liquors of Europe. On the merits of the treaty he would like to see it defeated, but on the point of honor he would prefer to follow the European method rather than the discreditable American system. [Cheers.] He would vote for the treaty. [Cheers.]

Mr. Flint opposed the treaty as a consistent prohibitionist. He confined his argument to prohibition objection.

Mr. Dickey and Hon. Mr. Mills also opposed the treaty, Mr. Mills claiming that ratification of the treaty would prevent the making of treaties with any other nation.

Mr. Cookburn opposed the treaty because it would ruin the wine growers and because it was opposed to the principles of the National Policy. It was taxing the poor for the benefit of the rich. He did not think any question of honor was involved. Parliament had a perfect right to reject the treaty if it pleased, and so had the French Chamber of Deputies.

Mr. Amyot said there were some members of the House who objected to everything French and would even wreck Confederation because there were Frenchmen in Canada.

Mr. Giguere (Jacques Cartier) thought the House was bound in honor to ratify the treaty.

Mr. Edgar opposed the treaty because it was greatly one-sided and unfair; and also because the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, with which Canada did more trade than with France, were excluded from it. In conclusion he moved the following amendment to the amendment: "That it appears from the papers laid before the House and from the statement made by the Finance Minister that the treaty was signed as to the most favored nation treatment without the instructions of the Government, and further, that the treaty was entered into under the erroneous impression on the part of the Government that the French colonies of St. Pierre and Miquelon would be affected by the treaty."

Sir John Thompson approved of Mr. Edgar's suggestion to discuss the question in a business-like way, but regretted that Mr. Edgar's colleagues had not done so, but had dealt with the political aspect only. He denied Sir Richard Cartwright's charge that the Government had been vacillating in its policy, and showed that last session was so short that there was not time to properly understand the treaty and ask for its ratification. He expressed surprise at Mr. Cookburn's evident ignorance of the fact that the duty on wines had been raised in 1879 on purpose that Canada might be in a position to negotiate this treaty. He entered into the merits at some length and strongly defended the treaty.

Mr. Laurier said that the treaty was useless without the establishment of steamship communication with France, and that in endeavoring to get the treaty ratified without dealing with the question of steamship communication the Government was endeavoring to get the treaty ratified under false pretences.

Sir C. H. Tupper said the questions of the treaty and steamship communication had nothing to do with each other and had been kept separate. Canada had been for 20 years trying to get a treaty with France. Now we had got it, why not try it? If it was not found satisfactory it was easy enough to give notice and terminate it.

Mr. McCarthy said that the Government ought either to have dismissed the High Commissioner if he signed the treaty without authority or have carried out his obligation in good faith. He said he should support the amendment to the amendment and if that was voted down he should support the amendment.

Mr. Davin, in a short but eloquent speech, supported the treaty.

Hon. Mr. Quimet said that it was in our interest that the treaty should be ratified. He dealt with the business aspect, showing that France imported $38,000,000 worth of the articles we exported, and France offered us a preference of from 30 to 50 per cent. on those articles.

Mr. Charlton at 10 minutes past 1 asked for five minutes to express his objection to the treaty and took 15.

The members were then called in and the House divided on Mr. Edgar's amendment to Colonel O'Brien's amendment, which was lost. 51 yeas. 119 nays.

The Place to Buy

THE LEADING PLOWS OF TO-DAY

on having changed his mind since ear, and spoke at some length against y, which he held would not be to Chantage of Canada.
O'Brien attacked the treaty because ed the duties on luxuries, like chamage and light wines. If any reduction in those were to be made he thought they should be on goods coming from the Mother Country. In conclusion he moved the following amendment, seconded by Mr.
McCarthy: That, while the House is willing at all times to sanction any treaty which on fair and equitable terms will add to Canadian trade, it is unable to assent to the treaty which has been made with France on the ground that it will not prove reciprocal in its results, in that it gives France greater advantages than Canada receives,
being unfair and unequal, inasmuch as according to one of the terms France is entitled to the benefit of all commercial advantages which Canada may hereafter give to any other foreign powers not merely in tariff matters, while Canada is only to participate in any reductions of duty granted to any other power in any of the articles enumerated in the treaty. It is further unfair and unequal in this, that while any increase in the duties on the class of wines which under it France is to have advantages in respect of entitles France to renounce the treaty, Canada is not placed in the same position should any increase be made by France in the minimum tariff wheat is to be enforced so far as Canadian products are concerned. An in the opinion of this House it is unfair and unjust to the great mass of Canadian consumers that duties should be lowered, as by the
the treaty they are to be, in articles of luxury, while high duties are to be maintained on the necessities of life, and this, too, at a time when owing to a falling revenue the duty can ill
be spared."

Mr. McDonald (Huron) objected to the treaty because Canada gave more than she got. Mr. McGregor objected to it from the standpoint of the wine growers.

Mr. Maclean (East York) said that he spoke as a believer in the National Policy.
He said that the Government was,
or should be, a National Policy Government and should refuse to ratify the treaty because it would not prove in the interests of the Canadian wine growers. If the National Policy was worth anything it should protect all classes of the public. He advised that in future

INSIST ON THE SENATE BILL.

Danger Point of the U.S. Tariff Measure Not Passed.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Conference Committee on the Tariff bill has accomplished but little yet, none of the important schedules having been considered.
There is some trouble in the committee. Enough is known to show that the Senate conferees are holding out for the Senate bill and that no receding
from the amendments passed by the Senate will be considered for a moment. It is understood that the managers of the bill in the Senate appreciate the fact that the danger point has not been passed and that any effort to give away in conference the amendments made in the Senate would cause the loss of votes that were held in line by the amendments that were put on the bill.

A careful canvass of the situation in the House shows that there is a disposition
there to accede to the Senate amendments for the reason that the belief has been impressed upon the leaders that such a line must be followed or the fate of the bill in its entirety will be imperilled.

Mr. Bryan of Nebraska, when asked about the probable result of the conference,
said:

"We shall get a bill a little better than the Senate bill, but not so good as the Wilson bill. The conference means a compromise."

tending the scope of its operations. By the provision of the new act about 54,000,000 acres of land would be forfeited and restored to the public land domain.
The bill was not disposed of.

A Million Knights of Labor Ordered Out.

DEBS ARRESTED FOR CONSPIRACY.

Immediately On Debs' Arrest the 100,000 Members of Chicago Unions Were Ordered to Cease Work—Then Grand Master Sovereign Called Out the Knights of Labor.

CHICAGO, July 11.—There is no disguising the fact that the local situation in the labor troubles is more grave than it has been at any time. This is not the view of alarmist or biased Radicals. Among the strike element, but rather the opinion entertained among all classes of the community which are looking forward with fear and apprehension to what the night or another day may bring forth. There were three times as many in the streets yesterday as were to be seen any day for many months past. Nine-tenths of them, men and women alike, displayed some emblem. The majority wore the white ribbon, emblematic of sympathy with the strikers. Silk miniatures of the Stars and Stripes, too, made their appearance this morning and before noon they were to be seen in thousands. In many instances this emblem of loyalty to the National Government was fastened with the significant bronze button of the Grand Army of the Republic. It was significant also that the Stars and Stripes were hoisted on scores of flag-poles both in the business and residential districts that are generally bare, except on Fourth of July, Decoration Day and similar national or local holidays.

The people in the streets keep moving. There was no congregation of crowds except about the military camps on the lake front and the Government building, and in the region of various headquarters of the labor organizations. In commercial circles there were lamentations loud and deep, for retail business of all kinds is in a state of paralysis, and the wholesale trade is faring but little if any better.

Although to some extent it has been anticipated, the arrest of President Debs and his associates was the sensation of the day. The president of the A.R.U. and his colleagues were brought in quietly and without any outbursts of popular indignation that sensationalists had predicted. The Federal grand jury occupied less time than had been expected in reaching the decision that the evidence presented for its consideration was sufficient to justify the return of true bills against the leaders of the union. Judge Grosscup's charge, although denounced with fury at the headquarters of the various labor organizations to-night, is generally commented upon in commercial and professional circles as a masterly exposition of the line between the legal and justifiable methods of trades' organizations and defiance of the laws or rebellion against authority of the United States.

Organized labor was prompt to strike back at the latest manifestation of Federal power and authority. Hardly had the word been flashed across the half mile of intervening ground between the Government building and labor headquarters that indictment should be returned and warrants for Debs and his associates placed in the hands of the officers when the committee appointed by the Trades and Labor Associations of the city to urge upon the Pullman Company the desirability of submitting the dispute with its employees to arbitration attached its signs to the order calling out every union man in the city from midnight.

Almost before the ink was dry on this document General Master Workman Sovereign of the Knights of Labor placed the official seal of the order upon a manifesto appealing to the order and through it to the whole people to lay down the implements of toil. This order, request, or whatever it might properly be designated was wired at once to the officers of every district assembly throughout the country with instructions looking to its immediate transmission to the executive head of each local assembly. The organization of the Knights and its means of communicating with the individual members is so perfect that it was the opinion at headquarters that every Knight of Labor in the land would be made acquainted with the ultimatum by midnight. District Assembly in Chicago and surrounding towns, was the first to respond to the Executive appeal and last evening by formal resolution it declared it the duty of all members within its jurisdiction to carry out the suggestions of Grand Master Workman Sovereign. Around town the news of the arrests, while it intensified the strained feeling already referred to, failed to produce any prolonged manifestations either of approval or indignation.

The arrested men took the situation in a nonchalant mood. No glittering of steel bayonets or tramp of military forces marked their progress to the Government building, nor were any handcuffs brought into requisition. They came like free citizens, japed and laughed and enjoyed the hospitality of the District Attorney's office while waiting for bail, but their signatures to the bonds as a matter of personal recognition and then returned to their headquarters.

General Master Workman Sovereign said at 12.30 that he was writing an order for a general strike of the Knights of Labor everywhere to-morrow, and the order will affect nearly 1,000,000 men, the present and former members of the K. of L. organization.

"The present industrial crisis," said Mr. Sovereign, "demands drastic measures. All true laboring men must rally to the standard of union labor. This action on the part of our organization has not been taken without careful consideration and we are ready to abide by the result. This order will probably affect 1,000,000 men. There are thousands of workmen in this country who have been members of our organization, but who are not now actively identified with it.

I am confident such men will rally to our standard at this time. Just at what hour this order will go into effect to-morrow I cannot say, as the sending out of it may be delayed until to-morrow morning. But it will go into effect some time to-morrow unless something unforeseen arises.

President Debs said yesterday that the industries of Chicago would be completely tied up by to-morrow. Mr. Debs added, the trouble had gone beyond his control completely and beyond the control of the railway union. "So far as the cause of the American Railway Union is concerned," he continued, "things look brighter to-day than ever. The strike is on and there is now no violence. That is what we have most to fear—the depredations of mobs who are really not connected with our struggle. With so many companies of militia here, though, there will not be much violence. The greater issue is to come now, but I hope it will be conducted peacefully and quickly."

Judge Grosscup this morning charged the special grand jury as to its duties in regard to the big strike. The charge was sweeping enough to cover offenses of all kinds. Judge Grosscup said labor unions were necessary, and that their purpose was good, but when they interfered with rights of others they exceeded their prerogatives. Judge Grosscup said if 10 men met and agreed to injure the business of a road it was conspiracy, but if one man controlled the actions of the 10 and ordered them out, it could hardly be defined as such.

The jury indicted Debs, Howard, Rogers, Kelleher and several other strike leaders for conspiracy and they were arrested.

They are indicted for conspiracy, which is punishable by a fine of from $1000 to $5000 or imprisonment for not more than two years, and also for hindering the execution of the laws of the United States, which is a much more serious offence, punishable by a fine of from $3000 to $5000, or imprisonment for not more than six years.

Passenger Trains On Time—Freight Will Move To-Day.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 11.—Several of the engineers who have been out with the A.R.U. reported for duty on the Chicago and Grand Trunk yesterday and are being hired by the company. All passenger trains are leaving on schedule time, and it is expected the company will send out a freight train or two to-morrow. Firemen are willing to go to work if they can be taken back without prejudice to any.

DETROIT, Mich., July 11.—All the striking employees of the Union Station Association, whose tracks are used by the Wabash, the Detroit, Lansing and Northern, the Flint and Pere Marquette and the Canadian Pacific, were at work yesterday, and everything was going smoothly.

At Battle Creek Superintendent McIntyre refuses to take the engineers' back in a body, and they will have to make application as individuals. This may make

DEBS A DIPLOMATIC.

Took the Gold Cure. But It Was Without Effect.

CHICAGO, July 11.—President Debs said last night regarding the charges made by Dr. Robinson that he was a diplomaniac, that the doctor's talk was not worrying him much.

"I was a drunkard once, I admit," said Mr. Debs, "but I went to Dwight and took the Keeley cure. I am a drunkard no longer, and liquor has no more fascination for me."

Notwithstanding Mr. Debs' statement it is claimed that when it was reported last Friday that he had gone to Buffalo he was so drunk he could not talk intelligibly. On Friday afternoon and evening he could not be found, and several people say they saw him at Englewood much the worse for liquor. This Mr. Debs emphatically denies.

Provisions Dear in Buffalo.
BUFFALO, July 11.—The effect of the Western strike is particularly noticeable here in the advance of food products on the produce markets. Butter advanced this morning from 17c to 20c. Eggs sold yesterday at 12c to 12½c, and are scarce to-day at 15c. In the hog market the advance has been from 40 to 60 cents per cwt., and butchers have advanced pork loins from 8c to 10c per pound. Potatoes, which were $1.75 to $2 per barrel for new, have advanced to $2.50 and $2.75. Fruits have not advanced because of the heavy supply from the Niagara district in Canada, but this is, of course, for small fruits only.

Why Pullman Cannot Arbitrate.
ALEXANDRIA BAY, N. Y., July 11.—George M. Pullman made the first statement in writing yesterday: "There is no solution practicable unless those who wish to be employed at the Pullman shops realize and act upon the rule of business—that the aggregate cost of a piece of work must not exceed its selling price. The continuous violation of that rule must wreck the Pullman shops or any other shops and permanently stop all work of the employees. This company cannot control the selling price of cars, and it cannot pay more for making them than it can contract to sell them for. It is impossible to submit to arbitration whether or not it shall do so, and that it shall do so is the only demand made upon the company."

Little Through Travel.
TORONTO, July 11.—The G.T.R. and C.P.R. officials said last night that they were not feeling the strike and that through passenger traffic to Chicago had been resumed. Although the trains are running, there is little through travel. The Chicago and Grand Trunk train which arrived yesterday morning carried but 38 passengers, where it ordinarily carries over 300. Three passengers rode in one Pullman car and the other two were empty.

DOUGLAS' EGYPTIAN

LINIMENT

DOUGLAS BROS. & CO., NAPANEE, ONT.

Mr. McAdam writes: Have doctored two years with four different doctors for pain in my right lung, which prevented me doing anything, had bad cough night and day, and suffered great pain. I grew very thin, and was still getting worse and the pain and suffering increased. Hearing of such remarkable cures made by Douglas' Egyptian Liniment, I determined to try it, to remove the pain and I received immediate relief. I followed directions, the pain decreased, the cough loosened, and before six bottles had been used I felt a sound man. It is now exactly three years this spring and have had no relapse. As soon as I began to use the liniment I stopped taking any medicine whatever, and I do believe that Douglas' Egyptian Liniment has prolonged my life. People said I was dying with consumption. I am firm in my statement, and trust that other people, when first taken with heavy cold on lungs, will immediately do as I did as last resort, and save dollars. Yours truly, Tamworth, May 23, 94. The Excursion of the Season Promises to be the Union S. S. excursion to Lake Sydenham, Aug. 8th—civic holiday. Go.

The logs in the river are voted a nuisance by most of the people who wish to take a trip by water.

The Napanee river is still full of logs and they are a great hindrance to pleasure seekers and navigation.

On Monday in the regatta on the Clyde, the Britannia beat the Vigilant. This is the third time the Britannia has beaten the Vigilant.

On Wednesday evening a number of townfolk enjoyed the moonlight trip on the "Merritt," while others took in the free concert on the market square.

The firemen of Oswego are going to have a big demonstration this month. An excursion will be run from Napanee, Picton and Kingston. Everybody ought to go.

In the local legislature Sir Oliver has 46 supporters, and Mr. Meredith 28 members returned to support him, the balance being mostly grit patrons. Where does the danger to the government come in?

Lennox fall show is fixed this year for September 26th and 27th. Some new attractions and novelties are to be introduced and the fair generally will be made as interesting and instructive as possible.

The Odessa correspondent of the Whig says: "About the only excitement of the week was the keen interest taken in the Kingston report. Now that it is found that the citizens of Kingston have, by a majority of one even, snubbed Sir Oliver and his commissioner of public works, and therein show their disapproval of the grant to the Kingston school of mining and agriculture, it will be in order for the premier to remove the school to Brockville or some other eastern town. The conservative majorities in Toronto are rather too large to warrant the grant to Hogtown, but when Kingston has so clearly shown her disapprobation of this expenditure on a school of mining it would be an infliction on the city to retain the school where it is."

The river is still blocked with logs. On Wednesday last there were so many logs and booms in the river that the C. H. Merritt, in steering clear of them, ran upon a mud bank, and remained fixed for about three hours and they had to put off their excursion to Belleville. It is a shame that the logs are thus left all over the river to obstruct the passage of different crafts. This is the second excursion the steamer Merritt has put off on account of them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for such a condition, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate, or life.

Who Stole the Pies.

On Tuesday last some very fast Napanee youths made early entry into the park, not by paying at the gate. Once there some pies were abstracted by them from provisions not their own. The police were informed of the occurrence and the boys had to visit the town and purchase pies to take the place of those stolen, or be locked up. The pies were purchased.

Ploughing Match.

As will be seen by advertisement in another column, it is proposed to hold a ploughing match sometime in the fall of this year, near the town of Napanee, if a sufficient number of people will come forward and help the project along. No doubt a ploughing match in this neighborhood would create a deal of interest, and would improve that very important part of farming, namely ploughing the land.

Another lot of those 5c. Prints just arrived at Lahey and McKenty's.

Mr. Mayman Keach, said to be formerly of Napanee, met with a fatal accident in Watertown on Thursday of last week. Keach was driving a top buggy, with his hired man, when the horse became frightened near a grade crossing on the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg railway. The horse darted across the track in front of a passenger train, running at 25 miles an hour. Keach remained in the buggy, while the hired man jumped out. The engine struck Keach squarely and threw the body over a hundred feet, horribly mutilating the remains. The hired man's legs were severed and it is said he will die. The horse escaped unhurt. Keach was 67 years of age, and left Napanee thirty years ago.

Sunday School Festival.

The parishes in the rural Deanery of Lennox and Addington in the neighborhood of Napanee, held their first annual Sunday School and parochial festival in this town on Tuesday last, the parishes of Deseronto, Tyendinaga and Picton also taking part in the demonstration. Had all the parishes in the Deanery been represented there would have been nearly 1000 children present. As it was 718 children and teachers joined in the procession, while the side walk was lined with the friends who accompanied them. The various excursions by boat and rail were timed to arrive at 10:30 a. m. Other parties drove in by road from several of the outlying parishes and stations. The procession formed at the market square and marched by way of John and Dundas streets to St. Mary Magdalene's church, each Sunday School being preceded by its banner. Thirteen banners were carried in the procession, all of them pretty and effective, and some of them exceedingly rich and handsome. Arriving at the church a short children's service was said, the singing being led by the vested choir of St. George's cathedral, Kingston, under the direction of Mr. Martin, cathedral organist, two acornets helping greatly in holding the children's voices together. The service proceeded without a hitch, and for earnestness and heartiness left nothing to be desired. The sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Burke, of Belleville, who kept the interest of the children fixed without flagging whilst he spoke to them of their duty and privilege as worshippers, and that "perfected praise" might come from the mouths of babes and sucklings. The service being ended the procession again formed and marched in order to the park where the secular part of the programme was carried out. Lunch was served, each parish picnicking at the headquarters assigned to it. After this the children joined in the various sports provided for them, whilst their elders were entertained by a number of the clergy and others, who delivered addresses. Among these were Chief Samson Greene, of the Mohawks, and Messrs. J. W. Meehan, M. P. P., Mr. T. Symington, Canon Burke and Rev. G. A. Anderson. Meanwhile an exciting cricket match was being played between an eleven brought over by the Picton Sunday school and one furnished by our own lads, the victory going to the home team. Another interesting competition was for a prize to be awarded to the most artistic and effective banner carried in the procession. Miss Harding was selected as a competent and impartial judge and after careful inspection, awarded the palm to Picton, a decision which was greeted with universal applause. The second prize fell to Napanee, though Deseronto and the Mohawk schools ran us very close. The results of the other competitions were announced from the platform, a large proportion of the prizes being carried off by the young braves from Tyendinaga, who were prime favorites with their pale faced brethren. Every one is speaking of the splendid singing of the children at the service. It is really marvellous that such good results could be accomplished when it is remembered that there had been no concerted practice whatever. The strong lead of the Kingston choristers no doubt did much to bring about this result. Professor Martin has good cause to be proud of his boys who have been under his sole care and instruction during the short time the choir has been organized. The proceedings terminated at 5 p. m., each party wending its way homeward and expressing unlimited satisfaction with their days outing. The following clergy were present: Rev. Canon Burke, Rev. Rural Dean Tucker, Rev. Rural Dean Stanton, Revs. F. L. Cheeky, J. R. Serson, T. D. Woodcock, R. Atkinson, F. T. Dibb, H. B. Patton, G. A. Anderson, and J. Beasish, of the Cathedral, Kingston.

WONDERS OF THE HUMAN LUNGS.

Six Hundred Million Air Cells Aid in Purifying the Blood.

The importance of the lungs as a means of purification of the blood and of promoting the general welfare of the human organism may be inferred from their protection, so nearly surrounded by strong bony structures. The same may be inferred from their constant action, without a minute's vacation, ordinarily, at any one time, from the dawn of life till its close.

Nor are these five lobe servants, in their general capacity, controlled by mental influences—will power—but continue their activity whether we are awake or asleep, whether we are sensible or insensible—managing their own affairs. Their appropriate mission is the supply of pure air to the system, the most important design of which is its purification, carrying all particles of impure and dead matter, which are ever accumulating as the result of age and the exercise of the organic functions.

To effect this very important result, this purification of a body constantly becoming impure, of necessity, there are 600,000,000 (by estimate) of air cells, all of these being more or less inflated by each breath. As small as these must be, it is estimated that the outer surface of each has an average of five minute blood vessels, containing the blood from the general system sent there for revitalizing, that it may continue to sustain and care for the body.

The theory is that the iron in the blood attracts the oxygen of the breath through the membranes, resulting in an actual combustion, burning waste matters, and, in this way, sustaining the warmth of the body, our clothing doing nothing in this regard, beyond regulating the escape of the heat thus produced, and preventing the natural ingress of the cold from without. After the burning of these refuse matters—by which a deadly gas is produced, as in all combustion, which, with what we may call ashes, are drawn through these membranes, entering the air cells, soon to be thrown out by the expired breath, as this gas is particularly poisonous to the lungs.

That such impurities may not be re-breathed they ascend, being lighter than the cool air, till the poison gas becomes cool, when it falls to the surface of the earth, where it is absorbed as one of the most important of the fertilizers, vegetation being sustained more in its work of purifying the air than by the soil. The average capacity of the lungs of a full-sized man is about one gallon, though only about one-half of the air is thrown out at any one time, the rest remaining, aiding in the purification of the body.

It is estimated that the lungs are supplied annually with 100,000 cubic feet of air, breathing 7,000,000 times, purifying 8500 tons of blood. In view of such a stupendous amount of toil performed by the lungs, with the importance of this purification of the body, without which health and life can be continued but a short time, it is of the utmost importance that we have a generous supply of pure air, while the natural supply would be sufficient, probably, if the population of the earth should be increased a hundredfold, particularly since the vegetable world is constantly employed in its purification. We have simply to open our doors and windows, freely breathing our part, in doing which we shall not rob our neighbors.—Boston ing heat which is right green on the under side and dark on the top, which he is told is the 'kukui or candle nut. It is so named from the fact that in ancient times the kernels of the nuts were strung on the midrif of the cocoa leaf and used as torches; as the uppermost kernel burned off the next ignited, and so it burnt until the last was consumed.

The tree was a very useful one to the Hawaiian, not only in furnishing light at night but for many other reasons. The nuts are encased in a husk like our walnuts, but it frequently occurs that two are formed in the same husk. The kernel is extremely rich in oil, which has been expressed and used for house painting, although it is but a poor substitute for linseed, in that it is difficult to get it to dry, and it always has a peculiar odor. The natives used the oil as an external remedy for some diseases, and especially as an aid in parturition. Should you collect some of the nuts you will find them good eating, but I should advise that you stop at one or two, or you will find you have an emetic and a cathartic which will certainly respond muy pronto, as the Mexicans say.

The natives roast the nuts in the ashes, and, having removed the shell, crush the kernels to a paste, mixing them with salt and pepper. This is one of the most delicious and appetizing zests imaginable, and is an essential element to a good feed of raw fish and poi. It may be that if some of our enterprising capitalists would go into the manufacture of minnows, as the natives call this paste, he might find an ever-increasing market for it. It certainly is preferable to the suspicious Russian caviare. The burnt shell of the kukui was used for making an indelible ink, with which tattooing was done. The green husk contains an acrid juice which has a reputation as a remedy in diseases of the throat.

From the bark of the tree there exudes a gum called pilale, which is as useful as gum Arabic or gum tragacanth for many purposes. It was also used as medicine by the Hawaiians in cases of dysentery. Being harmless, it would be useful in confectionery in making gum drops and jububes.

The wood of the tree is somewhat like our bass wood, and is of little value in building or in fencing, as it rots very speedily. Sometimes the natives made canoes of it, but never considered them of any value. As the trees die off in the forest their trunks and limbs are found to be covered with an edible fungus called pepeiao, which was formerly exported in great quantities to the Chinese markets.

To-day the kukui nut is largely used in the manufacture of jewelry, which is much prized by tourists as mementoes of a visit to the Paradise of the Pacific. The shell is quite hard and makes a brilliant polish, and can be had in black and brown.
